

INCLUSIVE HOUSING CO-OPS

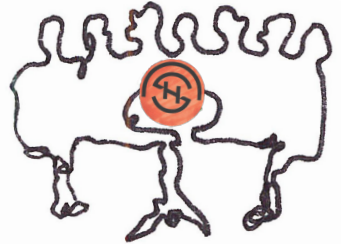

Join the research project!

What is a co-operative?

A housing co-op is a group of people who collectively own and manage their homes. Residents are tenants AND landlords, so rents are low and security is guaranteed in the long term. Co-ops are supportive communities where each person has an equal say in making decisions.

What do we want to find out?

- How can more people benefit from the long term safety and affordability that co-ops provide?
- How can we make co-ops more equitable, diverse and inclusive?

Why are we interested in this?

We believe that co-operatives can offer a genuinely affordable and community minded solution to the crisis we are living in. There are 300 existing co-ops in and around London and we want to help them become more inclusive. We are also passionate about creating new co-ops for people from all backgrounds.

Are you interested in long term affordable housing?

Do you want to learn about diversity and inclusion?

Are you already a member of a co-op?

Help us design and deliver a funded research and training project! No previous experience needed.

Drop-in info session: 28 October 1-2pm Location: The Field NX
Kick-off workshop: 11 November 12-2pm 385 Queens Road

Get in touch if you are interested: herta.g@ldn.cash

Community Assets for Society and Housing

CASH is a Community Land Trust bringing local residents and organisations together to create more co-ops.

Find out more at: <http://ldn.cash>